1. Work on the Zitnjak boiler factory was commenced in June 1947, and production was started on December 12, 1948. It is situated in the eastern periphery of Zagreb, in the Zitnjak area, and next to the factory for hydraulic machinery from which it is separated by a newly constructed road which leads from the highway to both factories.
2. The foundation for an industrial rail connecting the (main) railroad with both factories has been built, but the tracks have not as yet been installed.
3. The boiler factory comprises the following sections:
 - factory building - main hall
 - compressor unit
 - transformer unit
 - boiler unit
 - warehouse
 - dressing room and showers
 - mess hall
 - garage
4. All types of boilers are produced in the factory, with particular emphasis on boilers for power stations. A Communist, Rudolf Suzak is Director of the factory.
